VOLUME LXXXV

GRENADA, MISS., THURSDAY, AUGUST 12,

NUMBER 12

Highway No. 8 Delta Highway As- sociation Formed

Want Paved Road From Alabama Line Thru Grenada to Mississippi River.

More than 100 enthusiastic and representative citizens from Monroe, Chickasaw, Calhoun, Clay, Grenada, Bolivar, Leflore and Sunflower counties gathered in Houston Thursday, August 6th and a permanent organization to be known as "Highway Number 8-Delta Highway Association" was formed.

The purpose of this organization as stated in the resolutions unanimously adopted is "to promote a paved Highway No. 8, beginning at or near the Alabama line, through Aberdeen direct to Houston, Calhoun City and Grenada; thence along Highway 7 from Grenada to Holcomb; thence through Minter City, Ruleville and Cleveland, to the Mississippi River.

The delegations from the several counties came here at the invitation of the Houston Exchange Club, which sponsored the project, and were entertained at a Brunswick stew lunch by the club in the Masonic dining room. President Slim Hodges presided at the luncheon and at its conclusion extended a cordial welcome to the delegates. He then introduced Mayor Ashton Toomer as chairman of the business meeting.

Mayor Toomer stated the purpose of the meeting. He said that Highway 8 is one of the most important links in the State highway system, but that it had not been included in the present paving program. He said that a paved road from the Alabama line through Aberdeen across the State to the delta would serve a rich and populous section; that the next legislature would be asked for an additional paving program and that it was highly desirable that Highway 8 be included in the new program. He said it was the purpose of the meeting to perfect a permanent organization to work to this end. He then called upon a representative from each county to give expression to the sentiment in his county.

J. M. Christman, of Calhoun City, said that the paving of Highway 8 would be of great convenience to his county and pledged the hearty endorsement of the people of Calhoun to the project.

Dr. W. M. Kethley, of Cleveland, said that the delta section he represented was 100 percent behind the movement and that already some good work had been done along this line.

200 Farmers Met At Court House In Grenada Tuesday

They Hear New Cotton Co-Op
Plan Discussed By A. D.
Stewart.

There was a meeting of about 200 farmers in the Court House Tuesday to hear Mr. A. D. Stewart, secretary and manager of the Mississippi Co-operative Cotton Association, Mr. J. H. Hite, promoter of one variety of cotton in a community with no preference shown as to the variety, and Mr. J. V. Pace, extension market man, Mr. Gene Trotman presided in the absence of County Agent Cool. Mr. Trotman stated to the farmers that the government had completed making photographic maps of the county. This gives an accurate picture of the lands and will be of great service in estimating acreages for benefits offered in the farm program.

The purpose of this meeting was to enable Mr. Stewart to tell about a new plan for marketing cotton for the Co-op membership. It is the plan that has been in force in California and other states where great benefits have come to farmers from the pooling and grading of their products.

A farmer under the new plan must show faith in his organization for he will get an advance of about 80 percent of the market value. His cotton will be sold, expenses will be deducted and the balance will be returned to the producers. The practice of grading cotton for a member or non-member and visiting around to push the price up will be ended. Mr. Stewart stated that more farmers than ever before are attending the meetings being held over the state and that members are pleased with the new plan. There will be field men who will get samples, send them to the central office. The field men making the proper advances. The cotton will then be graded by expert classifiers licensed by the Government. The value will be determined and checks for the balance due will be sent to the farmer.

Mr. J. H. Hite, promoter of one variety spoke. When we say promoter, we mean no disrespect nor to detract from the high sounding term of Specialist, for Mr. Hite knows his cotton. What he is really doing is promotional work, and he has done great good in the State. If a hired man of the Federal Government can go to a community, talk to a group of even ten farmers and get three of them to go back home and put his method into practice, something that has been told them and that (Continued on page 4)

MR. VAN W. WILLIAMS

(By W. E. Boushe)

One whom we both respect and admire. One for many years familiar to the inhabitants of Grenada is Mr. Van Williams. Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Green Williams, of Milledgeville, Ga., who came to this State many years ago. Mr. Van Williams is one of the most tireless, aggressive as well as progressive business men I have ever known, winning the admiration of his competitors as well as friends. The old Williams home is about three miles west of Grenada, now the property of Miss Lydia Owen, but Mr. Van Williams did not long remain here. His energy as well as his ambition carried him to a more lucrative field. Coming to Grenada handicapped by limited education as well as meager finances, he struck boldly out, unincumbered and full of fire, succeeding where others had fallen by the wayside. Mr. Williams has been a merchant, farmer, realtor, but the profession in which he mostly shown was the insurance business. Mr. Williams has been twice married. The first time to Miss Mary Ladd. The second time to Miss Ida Rhodes, both were noble women. By their steadfastness and perseverance added their bit to Mr. Williams' success. I have often heard it said of some man, he was a success even though he failed financially, because he reared a fine family. Mr. Williams was the father of one of the county's largest families. He has given each member more than the average advantages. They are all making their mark in life, and contributing to the activities and welfare of the community in which they reside. Mr. Williams' family is one family in which the proverbial black sheep is missing. Mr. Homer Williams, well known to us all, runs the picture show here. He is serving us acceptably as Representative. A great sportsman, and engaged in many other public activities, and is also the patriarch himself of a polished family. Mrs. A. D. Collins, a daughter, is a delightful lady with many friends, interested in public activities and with fine children, the wife of our much esteemed friend and fellow-townsmen, Mr. A. D. Collins, a well known business man.

These two are the only members of the Williams family living in our midst today, but good may be well said of each of them wherever they may be.

Mr. Van Williams is now 81 years old. He has done the work of twice these years. His eye is still light, his mind is still clear. Though his step is a little slow. His desire to do is still great. Mr. Williams were there more like you, there would be no relief lines or bread lines today. Men like you who don the armor of personal effort and undismayed go forth to battle, overcoming obstacles which stand in the way of home, food and comfort. Mr. Williams we salute you. Our hats are off to you. Many more to you, and God bless you.

The Sentinel has been requested to announce that services will be held Sunday morning and evening at the Central Baptist Church.

Open New Jitney-Jungle Here Saturday

GROCERY STORES UNDERGO CHANGE

Complete Stocks and Clean Stores Demanded By Modern Housewives

The buying, selling and handling of groceries today, compared to that of a decade ago, is almost as different as white is from black, according to N. W. Little, of the Jitney-Jungle Home Office, who is handling the details of the opening of the new store here Saturday.

Until a few years ago, stocks were limited and Mrs. Housewife was forced to fill her pantry with whatever she could obtain and for whatever price was asked. The retailer had to buy just what his wholesaler could furnish him, stock of necessity was a limited stock. All of this has been eliminated today, and the result that the two operations have been coupled into a smooth-running efficient unit.

Twenty years ago, the public thought little of the manner in which its grocery stores were run.

Jacksons Returned From Ten Day Trip Through Texas

In Passing Through Vicksburg They Stopped to Visit The National Park

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Jackson returned last week from a ten day automobile trip through Texas where they visited many points of interest. In passing through Vicksburg, on the trip out, they remained long enough to make a tour of the National Park. Upon reaching Fort Worth, they visited the Rose Garden, a thing of breath taking beauty; the Will Rogers Memorial, and edifice which is a staunch reminder of how much the public loved this great humorist, and at the Fort Worth Fiesta they attended the show "Case Manana" which was so exquisite and magnificent that it would be difficult to describe, with its seating capacity of three thousand and seventeen thousand tons revolving stage with an orchestra pit on either side and the stage production of the much talked of novel, "Gone With the Wind," which proved to be most interesting and exciting. They also enjoyed the experience of hearing the "King of Jazz," Paul Whiteman's orchestra and seeing him in person.

With Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, was Mr. Jackson's mother, who had not seen her only two brothers for fifty years, also their grandson, Jim Tom Rose, who did not fail to take advantage of and enjoy everything he saw on the trip. They departed for Dallas Sunday afternoon where they visited The Greater Texas Pan American Exposition. While in Texas Mr. and Mrs. Jackson visited the Barksdale Airport, which is the largest in the world.

Monday they started the long trip back to Grenada, coming by Greenville, which is in the heart of the Mississippi Delta, where they found the crops in excellent condition. This proved to be a most enjoyable trip, but Mr. and Mrs. Jackson say they are glad to be back home.

New Jitney-Jungle Will Open Its Doors Saturday, Aug. 14

Jack C. Ellis and Albert E. Gully to Operate Grocery Establishment

Following the lead of other successful grocery systems in various parts of the nation, a new Jitney-Jungle store will swing open its doors to Grenada housewives Saturday.

The new establishment, operating under a franchise privilege, will be owned and operated by Jack C. Ellis and Albert E. Gully, widely known business men.

"Our store has been thoroughly remodeled," Messrs. Ellis and Gully said, "and an entirely new set of fixtures installed. We believe the people here will appreciate our efforts to give them a truly modern grocery store with full, complete stocks and a new merchandising policy that will reduce their food costs.

New stocks have been pouring into the store, and have been put on the shelves. The opening of this store is set for 8 a. m. Saturday, as disclosed by the firm's announcement elsewhere in today's paper.

Cash System

"Being affiliated with Jitney-Jungle we get the advantage of a huge purchasing power," Messrs. Ellis and Gully said, "and we are able to buy cheaply. We will pass these savings on to our customers. Moreover, the Jitney-Jungle stores are true cash and carry enterprises. No credit is extended. There are no free deliveries."

Messrs. Gully and Ellis, though young in years, have a wide experience in business. For several years, Mr. Gully was connected with a large oil company in Jackson. In this connection he had a varied business experience which will be of inestimable value to him in the conduct of the local store.

If experience in the grocery business means anything, Grenada is certain to have one of the best grocery stores in the country. J. C. (Jack) Ellis, co-owner of the local store, knows the grocery business from A to Z. For several years he has been connected with one of the largest Jitney-Jungles in the System. He began at the bottom and during the years of training was able to work himself up until reaching a position of responsibility. Mr. Ellis is truly a master in the art of merchandising and displaying, which knowledge should make food buying much easier for Grenada housewives.

Messrs. Gully and Ellis have each expressed their satisfaction of the City of Grenada and want to meet the citizens of our good city just as fast as conditions will permit.

Turnbo and Nail Attend 4-H Club Camp On Coast

Camp to Be Held August 12, 13, 14 at Gulf Coast Military Academy

(By L. H. Stubblefield)

Wednesday morning R. J. Turnbo, Gore Springs 4-H Club member and Kenneth Nail, Grenada Junior 4-H Club member left for the Gulf Coast to represent Grenada County 4-H Club boys at the 4-H conservation camp August 12, 13, 14. Two club boys from each county in the state will attend the camp which will be held at the Gulf Coast Military Academy. The purpose of this camp is to instruct 4-H club boys in game restoration and management. The boys will study feeding and living habits of quail, ducks, geese, squirrels, coons, deer, and many other game birds and animals. They will not only get a chance to learn something about fish, but get the chance of doing some fishing in the Gulf. This is the first State Conservation Camp to be held in Mississippi for 4-H club boys. The Federal Cotaridge Company is giving the camp for the boys.

All the assistant county agents in the state will also attend the camp. The camp program will be in charge of State Extension workers, State Forestry, Game and Fish Commission and Federal Conservation men.

Grenada To Have New Clinic Building Very Soon

Work Began Tuesday and Will Be Speeded Up On New Structure.

The building just south of The Novelty Shop on the West side of Main Street, formerly owned by Mrs. T. B. Revell, is being torn down to make way for a new and ultra modern clinic for Grenada.

The new Clinic will be incorporated. The incorporators are Doctors J. K. Arent, S. B. Caruthers, R. A. Clanton, F. S. Hill, and J. S. Sharp.

The building will be of concrete and brick construction with a glass brick and stucco front and will be equipped with the most modern equipment, such as air conditioning, which will permit patrons of the Clinic to enjoy the comforts only to be had in the larger cities at this time. The windows will be fitted with venetian blinds, will set back a short distance from the sidewalk and flower beds will occupy this space.

The laboratory and other surgical equipment will all be new and the best that modern science can furnish. Doctors Hill and Caruthers will occupy two offices, and Doctors Clanton, Sharp and Arent one each.

Grenada is proud of the step that these gentlemen have taken for it will afford our city and surrounding territory clinical service equal to be had anywhere in the country and manned by a staff of most able doctors.

They will occupy their new home by or before the first of the year.

Highway To Grenada County Line Has Been Completed

Freemong Brothers Finished This Stretch of Road Last Wednesday

(J. K. M.)

Freemong Brothers completed the concrete road from Grenada to the Yalobusha county line Wednesday.

They have done a hurry-up job. Hardy Station has been the headquarters. Hardy no doubt has had more freight shipped into the village during this construction work than has ever been shipped before. It has hummed with activity. Where there are pay rolls, money exchanges hands, and that has been true at Hardy. Work is progressing more slowly in Yalobusha county. They are using native gravel and are building the base, but from what we can see in passing there is only a short distance completed.

Miss Hannah Nickel Joins Grenada Clinic

Miss Hannah Nickel, of Centerville, Miss., arrived Sunday to assume her duties as Assistant Technician in the Grenada Clinic. Miss Nickel was a medical student in Louisiana State University, spent a year in the New York State Department of Health, attended the University of Georgia as a student in the surgical department, and was doing malaria technology in the State Hygienic Laboratory, Jackson, Miss., before coming to Grenada.

The Sentinel extends a hearty welcome to Miss Nickel and Grenada is proud to have one who is so learned in this work.

Mr. Geo. Ransom a Grenada Visitor

Mr. George Ransom, of Jackson, was a business visitor to Grenada Tuesday. He is connected with the Blind Institute there. Mr. Ransom is a native of Grenada and was associated with The Sentinel something like fifty years ago. His mother was the first white child to be born in Grenada after the two towns, Pittsburgh and Tullahoma were united in marriage on July 4, 1836 and the town of Grenada formed. We were very glad to meet Mr. Ransom, and hope he will make visits to Grenada more frequent.

"Health Protection For Every Child Must Be Made a Reality"

"Now, if ever," said Dr. Felix J. Underwood, state health officer, "health protection for every child must be made a reality." Addressing state health workers and others interested in Mississippi's future citizenry, Dr. Underwood pointed out that modern public health measures against disease can eliminate the major hazards to child health if homes, schools and civic organizations cooperate wholeheartedly in child health plans.

"Earliest students of human nature and human life" have long interested themselves in this far-reaching matter of child health. Governor Hugh White in his recent Child Health Day address said, "what we, as average citizens, need to realize is that the health and welfare of children constitute a problem of enormous proportions affecting the whole fabric of society. The health of the child is intimately connected with the sturdiness of the entire social structure."

In Mississippi in 1936, there has been a tremendous increase in specific activities affecting such grand totals as lives of mothers and babies saved, of health promoted, of happiness and usefulness insured. The maternal and child health program is under the direction of the state board of health. The work is primarily educational and includes public health nursing service and prenatal and child health conferences conducted by physicians and public health nurses in many rural areas which heretofore have not been able to have this type of service.

Of maternity services conferred in 1936 in Mississippi there were more than 60,000. Of infant and pre-school health services, there were approximately 100,000. This term covers such services as individuals admitted to medical service; visits to private physicians; field nursing visits; office nursing visits; inspections by dentists or dental hygienists; and the like. Of school health services there were almost 350,000 and of crippled children's services almost 500. Mouth hygiene work, outstanding in quality, has received favorable recognition from all over the United States. Since July 1936, approximately 110,000 mouths have been inspected in 62 counties.

In any program seeking to improve child health, emphasis must be placed on the condition of the child's environment. Much effort in improving the physical and mental health of the individual child is lost if he is still subject to the hazards of insanitary surroundings. In the broad program of the state board of health, this fact is realized and much effort expended in improving the environmental conditions of homes, communities, and schools.

"Child health," says our Governor, "is a vital aspect of that greater problem which baffles and perplexes the student of social and economical life." A former President said a thousand other problems of government would vanish if we could have but one generation of properly born, trained, and healthy children.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

Bein' a champion, and on a pedestal, it is great stuff, and when you are champion, everybody will say that you cannot be beat. And if anybody else ever wants to lead the procession, they will have to wait till you die or you retire or resign.

And then all at once, and kind of unexpected-like, somebody will show up with a hay-maker, and put the champion in his place. And the feller who was invincible and unbeatable yesterday, he is not being asked, today, for his autograph.

And in politics it is not much different, and everybody is either scared stiff of the feller who is in power, or is cheerin' him, one or the other, until somebody comes along and upsets his appreciat.

And gettin' beat at prize fightin' or politics, it is all the same, and gain' from cheers to jeers, it is not a long step.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

PLANNING PARAGRAPHS

(By Ruben L. Parson, Land Planner, State Planning Commission)

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on planning for a long-time program of proper land use, one of the chief executives of the Mississippi Planning Commission in an intensive study of land conditions in the state now being conducted under the direction of Mr. Parson.)

PLANNING PROCEDURE

Having defined planning, let us consider briefly how it should be done. An address delivered by Henry W. Toll to the National Planning Conference at Detroit, June 8, 1937, provides valuable food for the study in the following outline of steps in planning. Direct quotations from his address are properly indicated.

After following the outlined sequence through the fact that planning is not a simple little task that can be done in a day, or year may be appreciated. And the job isn't finished when the plan is put into effect. It can't be laid by as a cotton patch. Human standards and human needs are never static, and the planner is charged with anticipating their changes and facilitating their satisfaction.

But the initial plan looms greatest to us, not only because it is our immediate responsibility, but also because a proper beginning will largely determine the ultimate success of the whole undertaking. Well founded planning must proceed cautiously and deliberately.

As you review the following essential steps in planning please remember that every single one requires much careful thinking and a vast amount of exacting work.

Seven Steps in Planning

1. Inventory — accumulation and tabulation of facts concerning all resources within the geographic area involved.

2. Interpretive presentation of findings — summary of facts and a scientific evaluation of them.

3. Formulation of a Plan — drafting of recommendations based on factual analysis.

4. Effective communication to Authority — in other words, the effective transfer of the idea from those who know that ought to be done to those who decide what is to be done. (The scientist and the legislator must work together in planning. Usually their interests are the same, but too often they misunderstand each other. Unless the planner states his case properly he cannot hope to secure the necessary support from the legislator.)

5. Governmental Mandate — the transformation of the plan into an official program by legislative action.

6. "Organization for action including the implementation of the official program with money, men, and facilities."

7. Application of Plan — enforcement, adaptation, amendment, and adjustment to guarantee achievement of its ultimate purpose.

The whole procedure in modern planning is not unlike that employed by the army officer in battle maneuvers. His fire requirement is a thorough knowledge of the terrain in his zone of action. In the next installment the "law of the land" in State Planning, will be considered.

Premium Cotton Ought To Bring Growers Profit

(By F. J. Hurst)

Growers who have been selling their cotton on local markets without adequate information as to the quality and commercial value of their product, frequently have received only a small portion of the central market premiums and discounts for grade and staple lengths. T. M. Patterson, chief extension economist, of Mississippi State College, believes. He bases this belief on a study made by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics in a number of selected markets distributed throughout the Cotton Belt.

The results of this study, he says, show that in the markets studied the growers were getting only one-third the premiums quoted in central markets and, for staples longer than 7/8 inch, only about one-sixth of the central market premiums. Discounts for grades below Middling averaged less than two-thirds of those quoted in central markets, and for staples shorter than 7/8 inch, about 6 percent of those in the central markets.

Bureau cotton marketing experts say that lack of adequate information by producers as to the quality and commercial value of their cotton is one of the principal factors responsible for the variance in premiums and discounts as between local and central markets. They believe that if increased proportions of central market premiums and discounts for grade and staple lengths were reflected in prices to growers on an individual bale basis, the growers would be encouraged to make needed improvement in the quality of cotton produced. The advantages to individual growers of such improvement could be materially increased by improving the price-quality relationships in the local market so that a larger proportion of the central market grade and staple premiums and discounts would be reflected in the prices to the individual growers.

Price-quality relationships in local markets can be improved, the Bureau says, by a practical and dependable cotton classification service to growers, by producing cotton of more uniform quality in each community, and by supplying farmers with adequate information on prices.

A classification service, to be of maximum usefulness to growers, the Bureau says, would require—

1. Provision for obtaining samples that are truly representative of the quality or qualities of cotton in the bale along with means for correctly identifying that sample with the bale from which it was drawn.

2. Uniform standards upon the basis of which the quality of the cotton can be described for commercial purposes with a reasonable degree of accuracy.

3. Competent and reliable classifiers, along with means of adequate supervision of their classifications by a competent and reliable agency.

4. Facilities for assembling the samples, classing the cotton accurately, recording the classifications on convenient forms, and making the information available to growers in time for their use in selling the cotton.

5. Confidence and cooperation on the part of growers and of local buyers in the adequacy and use of this information in selling and buying cotton.

A. D. Stewart

(By J. K. Morrison)

We believe that A. D. Stewart, manager of the Mississippi Cotton Cooperative is a sincere friend of the farmer. His early career gave him a true insight of the hardships that are endured by a majority of farmers in Mississippi. Their income is mighty low and will not buy many luxuries. His father died and left a widowed mother and a family. He was the oldest child, so had much of the responsibility.

We heard A. D. in the first speech he made at a meeting of farmers at Gayoso farm. He impressed me as one who wanted to serve. I have known him more intimately since that time. He has had many experiences and has seen the farm problem from many angles. He is announcing a change in the method of handling cotton in Mississippi. Cotton will be pooled, advances made, the cotton sold, the farmer remitted the balance.

That is what a cooperative is if it is operated in accord with the State law.

There will be a meeting in Grenada August 10th. He should have a large audience of farmers to greet him and hear what he has to say.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

The board, with all officers, and members met Monday, August 2, 1937.

When You Need a Laxative

Thousands of men and women know how wise it is to take Black-Draught at the first sign of constipation. They like the refreshing relief it brings. They know its timely use may save them from feeling badly and possibly losing time at work from sickness brought on by constipation.

If you have to take a laxative occasionally, you can rely on

BLACK-DRAUGHT

A GOOD LAXATIVE

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food soon forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calo-tablets, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pkg. twenty-five cts. At drug stores. (Adv.)

HOUSE COTTON GROUP

Chairman A. L. Ford and the Special Committee of the House Cotton Group, accompanied by Senator Smith of South Carolina, are above shown leaving the Executive Offices at the White House after conferring with the President in an effort to secure the cotton farmer at least twelve cents a pound for the 1937 crop. The Special Committee told the President that something must be done quickly to stabilize cotton prices and that the Secretary of Agriculture now has available the authority and the money necessary to such action. The President informed Representative Ford and his Committee that if he could have the assurance of Congress that a general farm bill would be given the right of way at the next session of Congress he would use the powers and funds at his command to prevent a major collapse in the cotton market. This was reported to a second meeting of the farm Congressmen on August 6 at which time Chairman Jones of the House Agriculture Committee, Majority Leader Rayburn, and Speaker Bankhead assumed the meeting that such legislation would be given priority at the next session and that they would repeat the assurances to the President. Similar action is expected from the Senate Leadership.

H. D. Lane, Jr., left for Miami, Fla., Sunday to visit his cousin, Miss Jeanne Johnson.

Miss Cora Lou Majet, of Greenwood, is visiting her aunt, Miss Louise Majet.

Miss Ioda Lott is in Washington, D. C., visiting her sister, Miss Bertine Lott.

550 Men Wanted To Fill Vacancies

Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commanding the Fourth Corps Area, announced with a great deal of pleasure that the recent recruiting campaign for securing young southerners for service in the New England States and Hawaii was highly successful. Over 1200 southern boys residing in the eight Southeastern States comprising the Fourth Corps Area were accepted for service in the Regular Army and are now enroute to their selected stations.

The War Department has again called on General Moseley to secure enlistments totaling 550, to fill vacancies existing in the Panama Canal Department.

The young men accepted for Panama will embark on a transport scheduled to sail from Charleston, S. C., August 27, 1937. Over 200 men have already been enlisted, however, there are a number of choice assignments still open and prospective applicants are urged to apply for enlistment without delay in order that they may be clothed and equipped in time to sail on the August 27th transport.

Young men between 18 and 35 years of age who are unmarried, without dependents, and who are found physically, mentally and morally qualified are eligible for enlistment. Young men between the ages of 18 and 21 must furnish the written consent of their parents prior to acceptance. All young men must furnish two character references from reputable citizens in their communities.

The Army offers many opportunities for practical education and advancement for young men desiring to better themselves.

Service in Panama is particularly attractive to the young man interested in outdoor sports and recreation. The tropical climate affords an opportunity for participation in outdoor exercises the year round. Hunting, fishing, swimming and participation in all major sports form a part of the soldiers training in Panama.

Full information may be obtained from the Army Recruiting Station nearest your home or from the Commanding General, Fourth Corps Area, Post Office Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Recruiting Stations are operated at: Meridian, Jackson, and Hattiesburg, Miss.

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF GRENADA COUNTY AND CITY OF GRENADA

A ROAD THROUGH GRENADA FROM MISSISSIPPI RIVER TO THE ALABAMA LINE

The citizens of Grenada and Grenada county should lend their support to securing a paved road from the Mississippi River to the Alabama line.

This proposed road, sponsored by the Highway No. 8-Delta Highway Association, begins at the Alabama line, runs through Aberdeen to Houston, Calhoun City, Grenada, Holcomb, Philipp, Minter City, Ruleville, Cleveland and on to the Mississippi River.

At the next-regular session of the legislature, which is in January, another road building program will no doubt be inaugurated. There is no reason why Grenada should not have an East and West paved road and we can get it if the people will just wake up and have their plans of approach to the legislature worked out.

A road along this proposed route will open up some of the best trade territory for Grenada that can be opened. We will get trade from the Delta and we will get trade from the hill section that has been going elsewhere.

We commend the gentlemen of the Exchange Club of Houston for starting the ball to rolling and we feel that if we will all assist in keeping it rolling our efforts will bear fruit in January.

J. K. MORRISON

Mr. J. K. Morrison, known to most Grenada county citizens, is editing our farm page this week. We have never known anyone who had the interest of the farmer more at heart than Mr. Morrison. We hear him talk farm so much that we find ourselves plowing all night. We would like to farm but we just haven't got the money. With $50,000.00 dollars, more or less, tied up in a country newspaper we just don't see how we could raise the necessary money to operate a farm. At any rate, we are not going to try.

If you like Mr. Morrison's farm page, tell him, if you don't, tell us.

HARVEST TIME

Harvest time is near. Curling smoke goes up from the furnaces of the sorghum makers. Pea picking is in progress and soon cotton pickers will be singing in the fields.

We are devoting more space to matters that concern farmers than any county paper in Mississippi. This is especially true with this issue, we might call it the Farm Edition.

We are not only printing information vital to the farmer's needs but we are advocating facilities that will aid farmers in the sale of their products.

Grenada business men are being offered an opportunity to put on a constructive marketing program for farmers. Nothing will help them more.

The farmer should be aided in securing a market for anything that he has to sell. He cannot find markets unaided. Prove your interest by giving a lift to create markets.

LIGHTED CIGARETTE—$70,000 GONE

A short time ago, a careless Oregon motorist tossed a lighted cigarette from his car. An area of 5,000 acres, covered with good young timber, was burned. At the present average lumber price, that means that $70,000 in payrolls and supplies was lost to the state. And, according to a conservation authority, "it would really amount to a loss of well over a million dollars in the future resources of the state." Many decades are required before a burned tree is replaced and devastated land becomes valuable again. Preventing fire is said to be 75 per cent of reforestation. And more than 90 per cent of all forest fires are man-made. In every lumber state, you can see thousands of ghostly acres, covered with only the blackened stumps of once great trees—grim monuments to ignorance and carelessness.

Every individual owes his fellow citizens an obligation when he goes into the woods, or drives through timbered country. That obligation is easily discharged—but failure to do so may result in the loss of millions of dollars, and the ruin of irreplaceable natural beauties. Take the utmost care with smoking materials—and don't throw matches and butts, even though you think they're out, from your car. Watch campfires like a hawk, and when you leave, saturate them with water, then bury with dirt.

Remember that forests are our heritage, and that it is up to us whether we dissipate or conserve that magnificent legacy.

CIVIL SERVICE

The present breakdown in the Government civil service is apt to be complete by the time the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. finish organizing Government workers. It is all very brave for President Roosevelt and others to tell these officials-unionites that they will never be allowed strike or demand collective bargaining. It is perfectly clear, right now, that labor leaders like Mr. Lewis will eventually make demands upon the Government for just those sort of concessions for organized Government employees.

HIGHWAY NO. 8

Hoffa, who was introduced as "the father of Highway 8." He said that he was about to see his dream come true; that he had been working on this highway for the past seventeen or eighteen years, and that he felt sure that if the proper efforts were put behind the movement, the highway would be paved from the Alabama line to the Mississippi River.

Eugene Sykes, of Aberdeen, headed a large delegation from Monroe county. He said the people of his county were heartily in favor of the project and would cooperate 100 per cent.

Hon. H. L. Morrison, representative in the legislature from Chickasaw county when called upon, pledged his support to the movement and said that he would do all he could to have it included in the next paving program.

A resolution committee composed of Eugene Sykes, of Monroe, chairman; W. M. Kethley, of Bolivar, W. J. Rea, of Grenada, J. H. Christman and Dr. E. B. Young, of Calhoun, Dr. V. B. Philpot and J. C. Luker, of Chickasaw, and James Montgomery of Leflore, brought in the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted with much enthusiasm:

"Whereas, the present paving program which has brought about such wonderful good in Mississippi is now about to be completed; and "Whereas, it is our understanding that the next and most important matter for the consideration before the people of the state is a supplementary paving program for the further benefit of the sections of Mississippi not served by the major paving program now in progress; and

"Whereas, we believe that a highway through the section of Mississippi, represented by delegates here assembled today will be of untold benefit to a great section, namely—through the great prairie belt of east Mississippi, through Aberdeen, Houston, Calhoun City and Grenada, and across the Mississippi delta;

"Therefore, Be it resolved, That an organization be and hereby is effected which shall be known as Highway No. 8-Delta Highway Association to promote a paved highway No. 8 beginning at or near the Alabama line, through Aberdeen, direct to Houston, Calhoun City, and Grenada; thence along Highway No. 7 from Grenada, to Holcomb, thence through Minter City, Ruleville and Cleveland, to the Mississippi River.

"The officers shall consist of a President, a Vice President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer; the directors shall consist of at least two from each county through which the road shall pass.

"It shall be the purpose of the organization to promote ways and means of securing the support of the Governor of Mississippi, the State Highway Department and all members of the legislature in the construction and paving of said Highway No. 8-Delta Highway."

Following the adoption of the resolutions, the officers were elected as follows:

Tildon Pryor, Calhoun City, president.

W. M. Kethley, Cleveland, vice-president.

J. M. Christman, Calhoun City secretary.

W. J. Rea, Grenada, treasurer. Board of Directors: Monroe county—R. A. Pullen, Houston Blair, Herman Kilgo, Rogers Sanders, J. S. Hopkins, C. C. Clark; Calhoun county—Dr. E. B. Young, Weiss Edmondson, Dr. W. J. Aycock, A. E. Strain, J. L. Minor; Chickasaw county—A. M. James, Dr. E. K. Gunn, B. F. King, S. U. Hodges, Dr. V. B. Philpot; Grenada county—J. B. Perry, W. B. Hoffa; Leflore county—Jim Montgomery, John Petty. Directors from other counties were to be named later.

The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic and businesslike ever held in Houston. Delegates came with the determination to get something definite started that would have a definite and successful ending.

After expressing appreciation to the Houston Exchange Club for the generous hospitality extended, the meeting adjourned, subject to call.

TWO HUNDRED FARMERS MET

boy earns his pay. Mr. Hite is that kind of a boy. He stirs farmers into action. Great good is being derived in South Mississippi from putting into practice the use of one variety of seed. Not as much progress has been made in North Mississippi.

Rural Resettlement is practicing the one variety plan and we hope that the step forward we are planning in assembling the seed at one central place will put new impetus into the work.

Mr. J. V. Pace added variety to the program, discussing the price of cotton, something right now that is agitating the most of us. He told of the effect that the traffic has on price.

The farmer boys passed some resolutions and passed them on to the Senators and the Congressmen. They will be of general interest as we reproduce in full that all of us may get some idea of what the farmers want:

Resolutions adopted by 200 Grenada county farmers in meeting held at Grenada, Miss., August 10, 1937.

WHEREAS, The prospective crop of cotton in the South is in excess of 15,000,000 bales, and

WHEREAS, The price has already declined to a point below the cost of production, and

WHEREAS, There is every evidence of a further decline in the market to a point that would be ruinous to cotton farmers and result in wholesale bankruptcy to the South.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, by 200 representative cotton farmers, members of Mississippi Cotton Cooperative Association and Grenada County Farm Bureau at Grenada, Mississippi, this 10th day of August, 1937, that the President of our United States, our Senators, and Congressmen use their best efforts to obtain for cotton farmers a price adjustment that will guarantee farmers at least 12c per pound basis for middling 7/8 spot market.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we believe that a flat loan above the world price of cotton would be as destructive to the South as the low price. It would tend to obstruct the free movement of cotton in the channels of trade and result in a lowered consumption of American Cotton and the piling up of a hurtful surplus.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we express our further appreciation to our President of the United States and our Senators for their efforts already made in our behalf and suggest that you continue until a satisfactory solution to the public is obtained. The above resolutions were adopted by unanimous vote.

Respectfully submitted,
Signed by Committee for the Assembly.

Second Case Polio Reported

The second case of Polio or Infantile Paralysis was reported in Grenada Monday. The first case was reported in our issue of Aug. 5th.

Dr. T. J. Brown, County Health Officer, gave the following notice to the Citizens of Grenada:

A case of Polio, or Infantile Paralysis has developed in the city and I am hereby giving notice that all meeting or assemblies of children under 15 years of age are prohibited until further notice. This order is to apply to churches, Sunday Schools, picture shows and swimming pools. I deem this necessary for the safety of the public. Give the children a vacation and I urge that they remain at their homes.

Respectfully,
T. J. BROWN,
County Health Officer
He again requests that parents cooperate with the County Health Department and see that their children are kept from public gatherings.

Transportation Most Important Function

Transportation is classed by most school administrators as one of the most important functions in connection with the operation of schools. Considerably more than 125,000 pupils will be transported to and from the schools in Mississippi during the coming school year. The safety of these children is a very important matter and every precaution possible should be exercised for their protection.

The school buses should be well equipped, keeping in mind two important features. The first is provision for ample space and protection in case of bad weather conditions. Second and possibly the most important is the safety of the children. In order to insure safety the drivers should be safe, sober, and efficient in the operation of the bus. The buses should be so equipped as to give a maximum amount of safety and protection in case of accidents.

Before the operation of any bus is begun it should be inspected by the trustees, county superintendent of education, and the county school board; and should not be accepted unless it is properly constructed.

The law provides that in every school where transportation is provided a safety council shall be appointed. There should be one member of this council on each school bus operated in the school district. Before crossing any railroad track or highway intersection it is the duty of the driver to bring the bus to a complete stop and have the member of the safety council get off the truck and ascertain whether any train or other vehicle is approaching. If so the driver is not permitted to cross until the other vehicle has passed.

We wish to urge the observance of all the safety rules and regulations in the operation of every school bus in the state. We cannot afford to be careless when so many young lives are involved.

Home Grown Mules Receive Interest As Profit Source

The production of work stock in numbers sufficient for farm requirements and a surplus for sale, instead of importing them from distant states as in the past is approaching in Mississippi, as farmers in increasing numbers are using blooded sires and more and better mares.

According to official statistics, there are 357,000 mules and mule colts, and 81,000 horses and horse colts on state farms, valued at $46,083,000 and $7,044,000 respectively. The exact number required annually for replacement is not known, but is estimated at not less than ten per cent.

"Over a long period of years, we have imported an overwhelming percentage of our mules and horses from distant states," commented J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture. "This has involved a cost of several million dollars annually, and has always constituted a heavy drain on farm resources."

"More lately, our farmers are buying the best pure-bred sires in the nation, along with more and better mares, for cultivating crops and producing colts. Along with our dairy shows and beef cattle shows, horse and mule shows are being held in widely distributed sections of the state. In several instances, counties which produced a negligible quantity of work stock until recently, are exhibiting at these shows from 200 to 400 stallions, jacks, mares, and colts."

"A good two-year old mule colt is worth two or more bales of cotton, and an annual mule crop would add just that much to the farm income without decreasing other sources of income, and without adding to cotton surplus. In addition, Mississippi needs larger farms, better cultivated farms, and an abundance of animal power would contribute as much as any other factor to increase income from general sources."

"Here is another instance of the wonderful and varied productive capacity of Mississippi soil and climate. During recent weeks, I have called attention to the possibilities before Mississippi farmers for increasing farm income by producing selected classifications from a wide variety of crop and livestock sources. Not least among these opportunities is generally available in the state is the profit that lies in mule production."

Cotton Gin Fire Losses May Be Greatly Reduced

Fire losses in cotton gins, amounting to more than $2,000,000 annually, can be greatly reduced, says J. T. Copeland, extension agricultural engineer. When humidity is low and cotton is dry and dirty, high voltage charges of static electricity are common in unloading and distributing systems, in cleaners and lint flues, and on shafts and belts. An effective way to remove these charges and reduce the fire hazard is to ground all equipment that may accumulate a static charge. Such a grounding system is described by the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils in U. S. Department of Agriculture Circular 76.

Fire-packed bales are another fire hazard that can be greatly reduced, according to Copeland. If the ginners immediately after a fire in the gin, plainly and conspicuously marks the first bale that is tied out following the fire. This identification will warn handlers that precautions should be taken to prevent its being placed where concealed fire can break out unnoticed.

Whether cottonseed is subject to spontaneous ignition is debatable, says Copeland, but it is generally recognized that cottonseed hulls containing a small amount of oil are subject to excessive heating and thus are a definite fire hazard. Additional research work to determine the exact conditions under which such ignitions take place is needed, he says.

Adequate fire-fighting equipment in a gin may consist of water barrels, tanks, pumps, and pails or a hose line attached to a water pressure system and kept ready for use. Chemical extinguishers distributed around the gin, particularly near points of known fire hazard, and steam jets directed into gin stands, lint flues, the cleaner and pneumatic distributor also are effective in checking fires.

The State Game and Fish Commission through Director Si Corley, gives an announcement that Mississippi has prospect to share in approximately $50,000.00 of federal funds for the erection and maintenance of game refuges, sanctuaries and breeding grounds, under the provisions of a bill now pending in Congress. Mississippi already has 25 game refuges in widely scattered sections of the State, there being about 250,000 acres included in these protected areas, on which the Game Commission has placed many types of birds and animal life.

There had been a total of 234 cases of polio, or infantile paralysis reported in Mississippi up to July 7th, according to Dr. F. J. Underwood, executive director of the State Board of Health. Dr. Underwood stated that the rate of increase of polio cases had slowed up in Mississippi and he felt that possibly the peak had been reached. There were 138 cases of the disease in the state last year, and of that number there were 20 deaths and that of the 234 already reported this year there had been only 16 deaths, and attributed this lowered mortality to the fact that physicians are able to diagnose the disease earlier this year and that cases are treated in earlier stages this year than last.

The polio clinic, out at the old asylum in Jackson is under the supervision of Mrs. J. F. McDougal of the crippled division of the Department of Education's vocational work, together with Dr. H. C. Ricks of the Board of Health. This clinic, according to Mrs. McDougal, is not for the treatment of the polio patient, but for the confirmation of the diagnosis and for the appliance of the cast, in which the patient is kept for a time. The patient is returned to his or her home after a day or two at the clinic, and treated by the home physician and is under the supervision and watch care of Miss Mabel King, a trained orthopedic nurse placed in the field for this purpose.

Among the state officials who attended the watermelon festival at Water Valley Aug. 5th were: Governor Hugh White, who came up from Biloxi; Secretary of State Walker Wood, Attorney General Greek Rice, Insurance Commissioner John Sharp Williams, Agricultural Commissioner J. C. Holton, State Bank Comptroller J. C. Fair, and Capitol Engineer John Laird.

"Pounding our highways to pieces and not paying the revenues required by law must be stopped," Attorney General Greek Rice is quoted as saying, in referring to his present activities against express companies that are alleged to have been hauling freight in and through this State without paying the required license for so doing. The Attorney General has already filed suit in Harrison county against the Reliable Express

Co., seeking to collect $35,000, and alleging that this company has been violating the law for 700 days by thus hauling freight over Mississippi without license, the penalty being $50.00 per day. Similar actions are contemplated by the Attorney General with other offenders on the basis of evidence now being collected.

The State Tax Commission, under the chairmanship of Hon. Alf Stone, reached over a million dollars of taxes collected in the month of July, thus making some three or four months within the past twelve months that this enormous total has been attained, the exact figures for last month being $1,038,158.00, or more than $88,900 more than the collections for the same month last year. In the nine or ten sources of revenue collected by the tax commission, the two cent sales tax yielded more than 50 per cent of the total, or $536,859.00, which is about $50,000 more than the sales tax yielded in July, 1936. Total collections of Mr. Stone's department up to the close of July, this year, totaled from January 1, 1937, over six and two-thirds million dollars.

Bank Comptroller J. C. Fair's report, showing the condition of Mississippi's bank, as of June 30th shows a gratifying increase of 11 per cent, over the same date of 1936. Cash and sight exchange in the 182 state banks, with 22 branches, was two per cent higher than a year ago; stocks, bonds and securities increased 13 per cent; loans and discounts increased over 7 per cent, and other resources increased 4 per cent. Demand deposits increased 13 per cent; public deposits, 9 per cent; and time and savings deposits, 9 per cent; making an average increase of all deposits of 11 per cent for the past year. Comptroller Fair is very much gratified at the splendid condition of the state banks at this time.

State Oil and Gas Supervisor Henry Toler returned to Jackson recently from a visit to the Sun Oil Co.'s Tally No. 3 oil well in Lamar county, and was quite optimistic over the prospects for oil in this section. Mr. Toler stated that while the tests at this well have failed to reveal oil in commercial quantities in the sand strata encountered last week at a depth of 5,600 feet, that it is possible that commercial oil will be found in this well at a lower depth. The Supervisor further stated that the formation in the Tally well proves that there is a source for oil in Mississippi, and declares that this well is the most promising development discovered in the search for oil in the State up to this time.

WASHINGTON SUMMARY

(By Congressman A. L. Ford)

For five days this week the Senate debated and amended the various provisions of the Wagner Housing Bill. It was passed on Friday afternoon but it is reported that Senator Wagner is not altogether pleased with the outcome of the five day consideration. In the first place, Senator Byrd of Virginia succeeded in getting a limitation tacked on which will keep the cost of the buildings down to $4,000 per family unit. There was a hard battle on this provision. The vote in its favor was 40-39, and a motion to reconsider was lost 44-39. In the second place, it was provided that no one State can receive more than 20 percent of all funds made available by the Act. This is designed to prevent big States, like New York, walking off with the preponderant proportion of the federal funds. In the third place, the administration of the measure was left to the Department of the Interior and Mr. Wagner wanted it handled by an independent agency.

To finance the program seven hundred million dollars must be raised by the United States Housing Authority Bonds sold to the public and backed by the United States. This would be loaned to local housing authorities. The loans will have to be repaid in 60 years by the local housing authorities, with interest. Local authorities, under an amendment offered by Senator Tydings of Maryland, will have to put up 5 percent of construction costs. The House of Representatives will take up the measure next week. The Committee on Banking and Currency is now holding hearings.

Twelve Cent Cotton Movement
The House passed a sugar quota bill this week intended to assist the American Sugar producer, and the Southern Congressmen moved for assurance of a 12 cent cotton market for the 1937 crop. The Southern Group has organized, elected a Chairman, and conferences have been held with the President. He is to be assured by the Leadership of the House and Senate that first priority is to be given a general farm bill at the next regular session or at a special session this fall. It is anticipated that the President, upon receipt of these assurances, will move, under existing law, to guarantee a 12 cent receipt for this year.

Court Re-organization
Without going to the trouble of taking a roll call vote, and with little debate, the Senate on Saturday passed the Modified Court Bill, which did not mention the Supreme Court at all, so far as changes in that body were concerned. The bill, the aftermath of the bitter fight which began over six months ago, provided only for procedural changes in the lower Federal Courts. The following procedural change, as adopted in the bill in the Senate, are expected to receive House approval with little opposition:

1. Appeals can be taken direct to the Supreme Court from lower court decisions involving the constitutionality of acts of Congress.

2. The Attorney General can intervene in lower court cases involving constitutionality of acts of Congress.

3. Three federal judges, including one Circuit Judge, are required to stay an Act of Congress by injunction.

For Veterans' Mothers, Fathers and Widows

On Wednesday the House unanimously passed a bill, brought out by the committee on World War Veterans' Legislation, which provides for taking care of dependent fathers and mothers whose sons died in the World War or from service connected disabilities. One parent would be given $45 a month, or if both are alive, the compensation would be $50 for both of them. The bill also provides that where a veteran has a service connected disability of 20 percent or more and died from some other cause his widow and orphans are to receive compensation. The requirement is now 30 percent. The bill will have to be passed by the Senate and approved by the President before coming a law, unless passed over a veto.

COTTON IMPROVEMENT WORK UNDERTAKEN

(By F. J. Hurst)
Cotton improvement work as undertaken by the Mississippi Extension Service is designed to supply the market economically with the grade, staple and character cotton wanted by the mills, thru community planting of superior varieties, efficient fertilization and cultivation reduction of damage in harvesting, proper ginning, and selling of the crop at actual market value.

The first step in cotton improvement, according to J. W. Willis, extension cotton specialist, is the organization of one-variety communities. County agents' reports for 1936 showed 126 definitely organized one-variety communities in Mississippi. Reports to date this year show the organization of 33 additional communities, resulting from the efforts of county agents and Smith-Hughes teachers.

Mr. Willis explains that a one-variety cotton community is an organized community of producers, usually a gin community, where the farmers adopt one superior variety of cotton. Choice of the variety selected is made by the growers and is based on field records and experiment station results.

The setting of special gin days for ginning separately cotton from breeders' seed and first year seed is imperative in the continuance and promotion of one-variety communities in this state, authorities agree. County agents and agricultural teachers are urged to initiate necessary steps to see that all cotton from breeders' seed and first year seed in their respective gin communities is ginned on special gin days and kept pure for distribution to all farmers in their communities.

Communities not organized for one-variety production should perfect such organization before ginning time this summer in order to save pure the good seed which they have in the community for planting the 1938 crop, according to State College specialists.

Ward, Miss Gladys Collier and Miss Pittman spent Wednesday night with friends in Glen Allen.

MISSISSIPPI FARM NEWS

(By F. J. Hurst)

Mississippi farmers representing every county of the state through the eighty-two county program planning committees and producers selected from fifteen type of farming areas held a 2-day meeting in Jackson during the past week to make recommendations to national AAA officials for use in formulating the 1938 agricultural conservation program. It was one of the most important farm meetings ever held in Mississippi.

Believing that a loan on cotton would destroy foreign markets for American cotton and bring about further increases in cotton production in foreign countries, the farmers asked President Roosevelt to block all attempts to secure a loan on the 1937 cotton crop and instead recommend that Secretary Wallace be authorized to make cotton price adjustment payments to all cotton growers who are cooperating in the 1937 agricultural conservation program in an amount to equal the difference between the average sales price of cotton for the season and 12 cents a pound.

Farm leaders said adjustment payments would give cotton growers a total of more money counting soil conserving and soil building payments than they could possibly get through a loan, would permit cotton to flow freely into world markets and would encourage producers to cooperate in the farm program.

The farmers urged that crop control legislation be passed at this session of Congress to support the price of this year's cotton crop and control next year's production. So strongly do farmers favor crop production control, many farm leaders believe that 90 to 95 percent of the state's producers would vote for effective compulsory control. The group also went on record favoring provisions in the new program that would give producers who cooperate more benefits than those who refuse to cooperate.

Probably the most important action taken on the agricultural conservation program since the AAA was enacted was the recommendation of Mississippi farmers that allocation of AAA funds between Regions be based on crop acreage, the value of crops including all crops exported, the number of people engaged in growing these crops including landlords, tenants, sharecroppers and wage hands, and the need for soil conservation with all of these factors weighted so as to guarantee the same degree of parity income to all commodities.

The aim of this recommendation is to give the South a fair share of funds under the agricultural conservation program. It was stated that the South has 39 percent of the nation's crop depleting acreage but has received only 27 percent of the payments.

It was recommended that all funds allocated to any region at the beginning of any year be paid to the farmers in that region. Federal officials were asked to prepare

ESTABLISHING A MARKET

(J. K. M.)

Mr. John Leverett and the writer have been trying out the possibility of marketing meat, products and eggs in the Grenada trade area. Mr. J. L. Cooley says that the cold storage unit will be opened some time during the fall. Mighty little use to open the doors of the plant unless there is some business to take care of the expense of operation. It will cost money to employ a manager and pay the current bill as well as incidental expenses.

So many have seemed to think of the cold storage plant as a place where farmers can cure meat and nothing more. There are four rooms in the plant and we believe that it will cost at least $100 per month to pay for the current bill. The balance of the expenses would have to be paid from the meat curing and other business that may be done in storing. But we do not get the eggs

The Routes

(J. K. M.)

Mr. John Leverett, assisted by his brother, Carl, who drives the delivery truck, developed a good trade, beginning about six weeks ago and working as far South as Valden. A good once-a-week service is being developed and the trade is making a fine response.

We went into Clarksdale about five weeks ago, visited the market men there and sold to every leading market in the city as well as some of the smaller markets. We struck them at the dull season of the year, but in spite of this fact we are gradually gaining and hope to rise with the trade tide when cotton picking begins. We made our first trip to Greenwood 2 weeks ago and have made our first deliveries there.

We sold four of the leading markets of the city and have a promise of one firm that will begin sausage making in September to do business with us. We will extend this business and include other markets in Greenwood. The trip Thursday, the truck carried over 900 pounds of products. We make Greenwood the same day with Clarksdale. We have also added Sumner and Tutwiler and are delivering to both of these places. The aim is to make five trips a week but capital must be added and that is the reason we are presenting the cause to the citizens of Grenada and to such farmers who are interested in growing cattle to be sold for beef purposes.

Just as soon as we get sufficient operating capital we will purchase the truck through Moorhead, Itta Bena, etc. to Greenville. We should also go as far south as Belzoni. A five time-a-week delivery would sell at least 5,000 pounds of products per week. We doubt if any one who has gone into the Delta with a new line has come out near selling 100 per cent as we have. There must be some reason if we can start right at the dull season of the year, and get as many customers as we have done. The biggest reason is that we have the quality and the price and that coupled with some labor. Going after it is what gets business.

and even if we should rent space in the storage rooms or pay on the piece basis it would be a long way from taking care of the operating expense.

Mr. Leverett has a room eight by nine feet that will precool the meat after it is dressed and the operating expense is far cheaper. We must develop volume business before there is any hope of the plant paying operating expense.

We are pioneering and building slow. We know that it takes hard digging to build any kind of business these days but we feel that here is a good opportunity to deliver meat to the markets of the surrounding area, enable the market men to sell to the consumer cheaper and at the same time establish a market for the products of this hill area.

A separate selling agency with at least two trucks carrying a Grenada label will be a constant advertisement for the city. But that is not the main purpose, it is adding a business that will keep some one on the road all the time selling farm products for farmers.

a regional and state budget of funds together with rates of payments and submit them to the state committees in the region within the next 60 days for study and consideration before another program is announced.

Among the farmers attending were Howard Stovall, Stovall, chairman of the state agricultural conservation board; W. G. Evans, Columbus; J. C. Rimes, Tylertown; D. C. Alsbrook, Bolton; S. D. Klaus, Cary; P. F. Williams, Clarksdale; H. P. Sullivan, Walls; W. D. Dubard, Dubard; James M. Sessions, Woodville; R. G. Davis, Natchez; Henry L. Lewis, Liberty; E. A. Nunnery, Summit; W. B. Tillman, Wesson; A. L. Hughes, Jackson; Hal Overstreet, DeKalb; O. M. Hinton, Corinth; Mrs. H. M. Mayes, New Albany; J. A. Randall, Starkville; V. H. McHaffey, Corinth; D. C. Fowler, Marietta; H. A. Marion, Mooreville; V. E. Ware, Iuka; H. E. Mauldin, Aberdeen; C. B. Smith, Tylertown; Carl Jeffcoat, New Augusta; J. V. Donaldson, Lucedale; Frank D. Pittman, Pikesville and L. L. Roberts, Ocean Springs.

The Cooperative

We are advised that the warehouses will be leased to the Mississippi Federated Cooperatives and that this organization will lease to a local cooperative. It is my understanding that there will be local control. If the warehouse and cold storage plant succeeds it is the local people who will make a go of it.

A New Deal has come about in the operation of cooperatives. There is a law under which they must operate and that law is the Agricultural Association law. Under it the cooperative can handle the products of 40 per cent of the products of non-members.

The products must be turned over to cooperative and an advance made of about 75 per cent of the value. The products must be sold, all expenses deducted and the balance sent to the farmers in proportion to the amount of products put into the pool. This is the plan of the Mississippi Cotton Cooperative that will handle cotton in compliance with this statute.

The great possibility offered to make the cold storage unit succeed is the storage of eggs. We are urging that a cooperative of membership store all of the eggs possible. Even if they do this the number of cases will be very few. It will be necessary to have a case of eggs to store. Few farmers have that many eggs. During the egg season many of those who buy could send them to Grenada to be candied and graded and sold in the nearby markets, or stored to help make the storage plant pay and be sold when eggs are scarce.

If the work of handling eggs is confined to the cooperative there will be mighty little chance to make the plant pay its way. The store keeper for years has assembled the eggs. Eggs have been a medium of exchange for goods. The merchant makes a profit on his goods and therefore it is difficult for any agency to assemble eggs and compete with the merchants.

The biggest objection that we have to offer is that merchants as a rule are not doing just what they should to better the quality. Many in this territory could be induced to do this and the farmer would get the benefit of the increased price that would naturally follow.

If enough farmers could be secured as members that have ample products to make the storage rooms pay even then it would not be fair to exclude non-members. Most of us are rather liberal yet as to the rights of citizens and we believe that there should be no certain group to be singled out and given the exclusive use of buildings built with tax payers' money.

A Cattle Show

(J. K. M.)

Mr. J. L. Cooley, county agent, states that he is much interested in putting on a cattle show in conjunction with that mule show we are urging. That is O. K. and it may be that we will have to change that suggestion and hold it at the Fair Grounds.

We have mighty few pure bred bulls of beef type. We need to show such as we have. An interest may be created to add some more. There is poor demand for scrub beef cattle. There is a demand for high grade beef calves. If we can put across this plan for marketing cattle in the Delta, farmers will quickly realize that they are losing money raising scrubs. Beef cattle are certainly in great demand. Over supply of other crops is developing rapidly and there will be much feed stuff to fatten cattle but they are very scarce.

Our pastures should have good cows bred to pure bred sires. It does not take much to winter a cow. The hay can be raised and with little cotton seed meal she can be carried through the winter.

This proposed cattle show will help. Our friend Mr. W. A. Winter is, we understand, raising cattle, and there is Mr. Fred Dailey, of Torrance, who has three pure bred bulls. There are many others who can show good calves at the show and we can make it interesting for farmers and at the same time teach a great lesson in cattle raising.

Farm Products To Be Handled By Sales Agency

(J. K. M.)

In conversation with two farmers from out near Hardy Station we got some complaints that we have heard before. They said Grenada does not seem to be interested in cooperating with farmers. They are mistaken about that. Grenada has cooperated in putting up a building to house the employees who are employed to aid farmers. They complained that a storage plant has been built but no use being made of it. They said unless farmers know soon that it will be opened that their meat will be taken elsewhere for curing. The county board of supervisors cooperated in this building but it was decided to the State College. The City of Grenada is not responsible for the delay.

Mr. Cooley tells us that a charter has been applied for and that he will organize a cooperative to take over the lease. The College leases to the Mississippi Federated Cooperatives and they will lease to a local co-op.

The biggest service to the farmers during the fall is the curing of meat. They do not at this season have anything to store. It will be difficult to hire one or two men to operate the plant and pay for the cost of the current.

There needs to be a selling agency organized with a capital of at least $1000. Some one has to go out and build a market for products. I am interested in distributing meat at this time, and later eggs when there is sufficient volume in the surrounding area. A thousand dollars is a modest beginning and if the business grows as it should, more capital can be added. That would not be but $10 each for 100 firms and individuals. A few that would profit most would not doubt be willing to take from $50 to $100. That would speed us on our way. At an average of 5 cents per pound for cattle this would purchase 20,000 pounds and dress out about 10,000 pounds. The distribution of 10,000 pounds would be a good volume for a beginning concern. The money will not be used for equipment but will be used as a revolving fund to purchase the cattle and the eggs.

The county and the government have invested about $30,000 in a plant and it is not asking for too much for Grenada to put up $1,000, not as a gift, but to draw interest and employ several people who will make it their business to find markets and by their patronage help to make a go of the cold storage and warehouse.

8,000 FARMERS APPROVE COOPERATIVE MARKETING

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 11.—At 40 county membership meetings held during the past three weeks more than 8,000 farmers have voiced their approval of the new cooperative marketing plan advanced by the Mississippi Cooperative Cotton Association, reports A. D. Stewart, general manager of the association.

W. M. Crumpton, of the Extension Service, district extension agents, county agents and other extension workers are cooperating in the educational campaign.

"Farmers are endorsing the association's plan of limiting its services to members only," Stewart said. "They thoroughly appreciate the increased advantages offered to members under the new plan."

Beginning with the approaching season the association's representatives will discontinue the practice of giving immediate class and value on deliveries. Growers will deliver their samples and collateral to the association's field representative and get an advance on their cotton. The samples will be forwarded to the central office at Jackson where expert classifiers, licensed by the government, will determine the true value of the staple. Payment of the balance will be mailed to growers as soon as the samples are classified.

The association shattered all records last year when it handled approximately 310,000 bales for 72,000 state growers charging less than 50 cents a bale for its services. No other cotton cooperative in the entire belt equalled the record for efficiency of operation.

A Central Warehouse

(J. K. M.)

Rural Resettlement Administration is doing a good work rehabilitating farmers. The problem that faces the farmers is where can they sell what they produce.

Talking to Mr. J. T. Thomas a few nights ago, telling of the plan that I have in mind, he says it takes concentration of farm products at a central place to give volume that will afford farmers a market. Suppose that Mr. Oliver did not have his products that he sells to merchants assembled in a central place and did not have a man on the road selling, just how much business would he do?

It is just as essential for farm products to be centralized at some point where buyers can come and get products or an organization created to send some one out to sell the products as it is for Mr. Oliver to conduct his wholesale business as he does.

There are warehouse facilities here. They can be made available. We should at once bond a warehouse where all surplus farm products can be brought to be stored. We believe that there are at least five counties that would cooperate in such a program. There is going to be a great crop of peas. If they are put on the market in the fall of the year when there is no demand the prices will be low. Farmers should have a place where they can take their peas or any other non-perishable farm product and store, get a negotiable warehouse receipt and either borrow money on it or hold without borrowing to be sold when there is a demand.

Members of the cooperative can store or non-members can do the same thing. Rural Resettlers or people who owe the Federal Land Bank, the Federal Seed Loan or the Production Credit Corporation. The products can be held and the money turned over to these agencies.

An individual that owns the warehouse can bond the warehouse and the manager can get a liability bond. Such products as can be stored at the WPA built warehouse can be stored as this building will accommodate, but it does not have space to store a large quantity. I understand that a car load of winter cover crop seed will be stored that will take up quite a bit of space.

If there is any development of the meat business such as sausage making, etc., a room will be needed for this.

The warehouse we are discussing must be supplemental to the warehouse that we have.

If we depend entirely upon the membership in a cooperative this fall we will not serve a very large number of farmers. There should be a service extended to everybody who has products for storage.

Children In Court

(By Judge Malcolm Hatfield)

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission is today enforcing its order calling for the revocation of the license of any establishment in which slot machines, baffle boards, or any kind of skill games may be found. The prohibition extends to rooms connected with rooms in which liquor is sold or served.

If county and city enforcement officials throughout Michigan follow the example of state authorities and confiscate all slot machines in establishments where liquor is not sold, Michigan will be setting an example which law abiding citizens in other states can urge their own city, county and state officials to adopt.

Taking Housework Out Of Doors

Many families have found it sufficiently pleasant and advantageous to do some of the daily housework outside the house in summer, to make suitable arrangements for it, Miss May Cresswell, state home demonstration agent, of Mississippi State College, says.

A roomy screened porch at the back or side of the house, near the kitchen, provides a place that makes preparing vegetables and fruits a restful interlude in the homemaker's otherwise strenuous schedule. Some families have put in running water on the porch.

PLANNING PARAGRAPHS

(By Ruben L. Parson, Land Planner, State Planning Commission)

(Editor's Note: This is the third of articles on planning for a long-time program of proper land use, one of the chief objectives of the Mississippi Planning Commission in an intensive study of land conditions in the state now being conducted under the direction of Mr. Parson.)

Inventory—First Step in Planning
Before a manufacturer builds his plant, he determines how much capital he may safely invest and how much he may definitely secure. When our secretary contemplates a vacation she figures out how much money she will have put away before her leave begins, and how much of it she can afford to spend. When the farmer decides how many acres of corn, how many of cotton, and how many of other crops to plant next year, he already knows how much land he has under the plow. All these people are planning, and each one takes stock of what there is to use before deciding how to use it. The first step is an inventory!

In regional planning, whether for a county, a state, or any other geographic unit, an inventory of its resources must precede the formulation of a plan for their use and preservation.

First, we need to know what we have at hand. Our stock falls into three major classes—physical, economic, and cultural.

Water has a number of advantages, she says, with the back porch ranking well up for this use, too. Ironing on a screened porch as any one knows, is far more comfortable on a summer day than at close quarters to the cook stove.

Meals served on a dining porch are especially delightful. Families who expect to make repairs or changes in their homes and wish to include some of these advantages, may find some suggestions in Farmers' Bulletin 1738-F, Farmhouse Plans, which shows a number of plans in which space is provided for housework out of doors.

When Women Need Cardui

If you seem to have lost some of your strength you had for your favorite activities, or for your housework . . . and care less about your meals . . . and suffer severe discomfort at certain times, . . . try Cardui!

Thousands and thousands of women say it has helped them. By increasing the appetite, improving digestion, Cardui helps you to get more nourishment. As strength returns, unnecessary functional aches, pains and nervousness just seem to go away.

The physical class includes the natural attributes and natural resources, such as climate, physiography, soils, vegetation, minerals, and water.

The economic class includes man made wealth and the enterprises producing it—agriculture, forestry, mining, manufacturing and commerce, together with certain concomitants peculiarly qualified by each, such as income, taxation, distribution of wealth, and others. For the land planner this class constitutes the present land use, with diverse ramifications.

In the cultural class are grouped the characteristics of the population, such as education, occupation, scale of living, race, communities, and many other features of the human element.

Complete inventory of facts pertaining to the three groups outlined above approximate a summary of (1) natural wealth, (2) man's use thereof, and (3), the status he has attained by such use. Such an inventory lays the foundation for planning toward enduring prosperity.

Preparation of the inventory requires effective organization of executive direction, scientific supervision, technical preparation, and clerical tabulation of data.

The sources of these data fall into two general classes, (1) statistical and graphic information already prepared, which requires assimilation or reorganization for planning purposes, and (2) original field surveys and maps made on the ground.

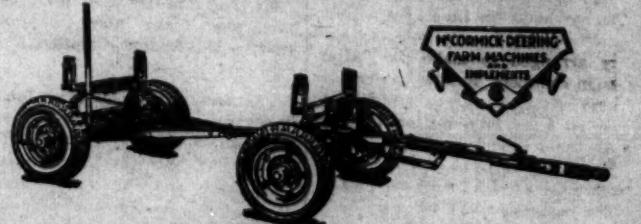

Government reports and maps contribute a major portion of the first class; land economic surveys for classifying the land according to quality, present use, etc. should be significant in the second. Available literature yields invaluable information but usually it is of a general nature or in a field only indirectly related to planning. Therefore the planner must include in his procedure field research of various kinds to satisfy his peculiar needs.
